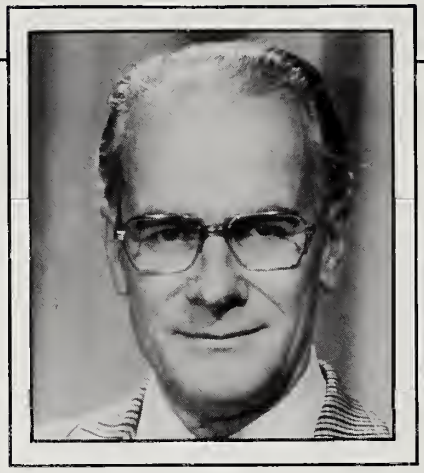
Focus on the Humanities

From the Chair of the Board of Regents



It is a pleasure for me as the new chair of the Board of Regents to have this chance to talk about "A Decade of Opportunity," Wartburg's newly approved long-range plan that was announced in the previous issue of the Wartburg Magazine. This plan, which was almost two years in the making, was unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed by the Regents at the May board meeting. Implementation of the various components of the plan has already begun. Resources to fund the principal initiatives—endowing faculty chairs and professorships, developing our leadership and global outreach emphases and providing needed facilities—will be substantial. All of you will be provided opportunities to assist with this effort. Giving to the Annual Fund is certainly one way that each of us can help.

All of us who have been involved in this plan—board members, administrators, faculty, alumni, student leaders, and special friends of the college—are enthusiastic about it. Wartburg is a great place today. We are dedicated to making it even better tomorrow. We need committed supporters. I encourage all of you to join up!

As I begin my first year of chairing the Board of Regents, I would like to pay tribute to my predecessor, Irv Burling, who has recently completed 12 years of service on the Board, the last nine as chair. Irv was a great leader. He brought to the board the same qualities of intelligence, judgment, drive and commitment to excellence that have made him such a successful chief executive at Century Companies. In addition, he brought a strong belief in Christian higher education, borne out of his own strong Christian faith, as well as a great love for Wartburg. It was an unbeatable combination. While many people have played a part in bringing Wartburg to its enviable position today, Irv Burling clearly has been a dominant factor. All of us who love this place are deeply and permanently indebted to him.

Fall Term enrollment is largest since 1971

Wartburg has its largest Fall Term enrollment in 17 years, according to the registrar's office.

The total figure is 1,358 students, an increase of 61 over last year and the largest since the 1971 enrollment of 1,361.

The increase comes entirely in new students—345 freshmen and 89 transfers for a total of 434. That also is the largest group of new students since 1984.

Although the number of returning students was exactly the same this year as last, 828, the retention percentage hit an all-time high of 88.5 percent, because the pool of eligible returning students was 38 smaller than a year ago.

Admissions Director Bob Nielson said there were a number of reasons for the larger group of new students.

"There was an institutional commitment to increase enrollment by the admissions staff, faculty and administration," he said. "There was excellent cooperation from all concerned. Secondly, Wartburg has been cited by a number of national publications, such as Changing Times magazine, and that has brought us national recognition and attention.

"Finally, our remarkable placement record—98.5% for the class of 1987—conveys a sense of our academic quality to prospective students."

The number of transfer students , 89, is the largest on record, and Nielson credits cooperative agreements with the Hawkeye Institute of Technology in Waterloo and Waldorf College in Forest City for the bulk of the increase.

High retention also played a major role in the final enrollment figure.

"Retention is a measure of the success of a student at a college and that student's satisfaction with the college," Provost Edwin H. Welch said. "Last year was a great year, and that's because everyone at the college helped make it so—the student life staff, faculty, student leaders and all administrators and staff. Particular efforts were made by the Assistant Provost, Sarah Pringle-Lewis, along with residential life, financial aid, the registrar's office and the business office to work with students and facilitate their return to campus this fall."

Slifes commit funds for first professorship

Harry and Polly Slife of Cedar Falls have committed funding for the first Distinguished Professorship in the history of Wartburg.

The Professorship is in the humanities and, according to President Robert Vogel, supports Wartburg's dedication to its strong humanities program. The Slifes have pledged $200,000 for the endowed teaching position.

As reported in the last issue of the Wartburg Magazine, the college's long range plan calls for endowing at least five chairs and 10 distinguished professorships by 1993.

Harry and Polly Slife

Dr. Herman Diers, who teaches religion from Wartburg's new Humanities Center, was pleased with the Slife's commitment to the professorship.

"I find it impressive that the Slifes, coming from a business background, would choose to endow a professorship in the humanities," he said. "To me, it represents the strongest affirmation of the importance of the humanities to the whole of life."

Slife is the recently-elected chair of Wartburg's Board of Regents.

The Slife family has had a long association with the college. The former president of Black Hawk Broadcasting in Waterloo has served on the Wartburg Board of Regents since 1980, taught at the college as an executive-in-residence after his retirement and, in 1987, established the Harry and Polly Slife Minority Scholarship to provide opportunity for minority students from the Waterloo-Cedar Falls area to attend Wartburg College.

Three Slife daughters, Sarah, Polly and Peggy, all graduated from Wartburg.

New $1,000 Alumni Grant announced for children of alumni

A new Alumni Grant will be made available next fall to full-time Wartburg students who are children of alumni, according to Tom Thomsen, director of financial aid.

The grant is for $1,000 per year, applicable toward tuition, for any student whose parent or parents completed at least one full year at Wartburg. The grant is inclusive for all students, regardless of financial need.

"The Alumni Grant continues to affirm Wartburg's strong efforts to serve children of alumni and also reflects the college's commitment to provide financial resources to students who attend Wartburg," Thomsen said.

During the 1987-88 academic year, Wartburg had 139 students who were sons or daughters of alumni. This fall, an additional 45 new students matriculated.

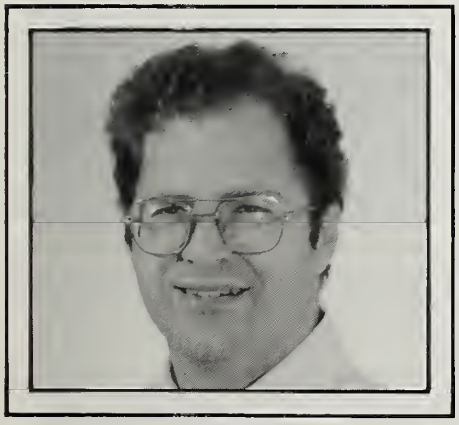
Wartburg has had Alumni Grants in the past, but they were based on need and ranged in value from $100 to $1,000 annually.

The new grant is available to incoming as well as current students. For students with need, the Alumni Grant will be awarded as part of their total financial aid package.

For more information, contact the Financial Aid Office at Wartburg (telephone: [319] 352-8262).

Three appointments complete faculty

Three late summer appointments completed Wartburg's faculty for the 1988-89 academic year.



Schmidt

They are Dr. Mark Schmidt, who is an assistant professor of chemistry; Ann Ellsworth, instructor in English; and Shaheen S. Munir, instructor in psychology.

Schmidt replaced Dr. Mono Mohan Singh, who accepted a teaching position at Merrimack College in Andover, Mass.; Ellsworth completed the 1987-88 year for the late Marion Gremmels, first as a part-time instructor in the Fall Term and then as a full-time teacher during the Winter Term; and Munir takes over for Brian Betz, who accepted a teaching position at Pennsylvania State University.

SCHMIDT had been a research chemist with the Ceramics Process Systems, Cambridge, Mass., where he worked on low firing temperature, low dielectric materials for electronic packaging and successfully developed a commercial product.

Last March, he was assigned to be a corporate visiting scientist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He has also been a postdoctoral fellow at the Ames Laboratory and a teaching and research fellow at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

He is a 1979 graduate of Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn., and earned his Ph.D. degree at Wisconsin.

ELLSWORTH formerly taught at the Iowa City, Iowa, and Reliance, S.D., high schools and the Parker Academy in Waterloo, Iowa.

She is a published poetess, has researched and curated several art exhibits for children and is a vocal performer.

Ellsworth

She is a 1964 graduate of the University of Iowa. The following year, she completed a diploma course in general linguistics at University College in London, England, and then earned an M.A. degree at the University of Northern Iowa in 1987.

MUNIR has been a graduate teaching and research associate at Ohio State University, where she is working on her doctorate.

She is the co-author of a number of publications and presentations dealing with ego identity, sex roles and social support.

She earned both her B.A. and M.A. degrees in psychology at Osmania University in Hyderabad, India.

Choir produces 2nd Christmas recording

A new Christmas album and cassette, Stille Nacht, has been produced by the Wartburg Choir and will be available for this holiday season.

It features traditional Christmas music, including two choruses from Handel's Messiah.

This is the second Christmas album recorded by the choir. The first was The Three Kings, but it is no longer available and there are no plans for a new pressing, according to Director Paul Torkelson.

Stille Nacht is a digital recording, which Torkelson says produces a better sound.

Proceeds from sales of the albums and cassettes will help defray expenses for the choir when it performs an invitational concert at Carnegie Hall in New York City May 26, 1989. (There will be additional information on the concert in the next issue of the Wartburg Magazine.)

Both the album and the cassette are $10 plus $1.50 for shipping. They may be ordered through the Wartburg music department or bookstore. Availability is expected in mid to late November.

Minimum Regents Scholarships are increased from $1,000 to $2,500 annually

The minimum award for participating in Wartburg's most prestigious academic scholarship program, the Regents Scholarship competition, has been raised from $1,000 to $2,500 per year.

In order to qualify for participation, students must rank in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class or have an ACT composite test score of 28 or an SAT combined score of 1150.

Scholarships offered in the Regents program range in value from $6,000 per year to the new minimum of $2,500.

The competitions for the awards this year are Sunday, Jan. 22, 1989, and Saturday, Jan. 28, 1989. To participate, eligible students must complete an invitation response and an application for admission and submit it to the Admissions Office by Jan. 16, 1989.

The awards are made on bases of academic record, an essay written on topics selected by the Regents Scholarship Committee and an interview with a committee composed of two faculty members and a member-at-large. The essay and interview are completed during one of the two Regents competitions.

The scholarships, which are based strictly on academic ability, are renewable for four years, pending maintenance of a 3.0 grade point average (on a 4.0 basis) and on-campus attendance at Wartburg.

The minimum awards are made to all participating students who do not win one of the larger scholarships.

Christmas with Wartburg programs celebrate Russian church anniversary

The focus of this year's Christmas with Wartburg programs is the 1,000th anniversary of the first baptism in Russia and the beginning of the church there.

The theme is "From the East to the West: The Light Shines Forth," and the program will consist of Christmas music from both American and Russian composers.

There again will be four presentations of the program, two at Wartburg, one in Cedar Falls, Iowa, and another in Des Moines, Iowa.

The first is Thursday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m. in Neumann Auditorium on campus; the second is Friday, Dec. 2, at 8 p.m. in Nazareth Lutheran Church, Cedar Falls; the third is Saturday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. in Plymouth Congregational United Church of Christ, Des Moines; and the final presentation is back on campus at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4.

There is no admission charge, but because of seating limitations those attending are asked to pick up tickets. For ticket information, call (319) 352-8286 in Waverly, (319) 266-7589 in Cedar Falls or (515) 255-3149 in Des Moines.

Receptions will follow each of the evening performances.

Following the Sunday performance, the Wartburg Choir presents its annual Christmas Carol Dinner, beginning at 4:30 p.m. in the Student Union. There is just one setting in the Castle Room, Buhr Lounge and Dining Hall. Small ensembles from the choir perform traditional Christmas carols during the meal.

Tickets for the dinner are $8 and may be ordered through the college's Visitor Center ([319] 352-8286).

The Wartburg Choir, Castle Singers and Wartburg Concert Band combine to present the annual Christmas with Wartburg program under the direction of Paul Torkelson and Dr. Robert Lee of the music faculty.

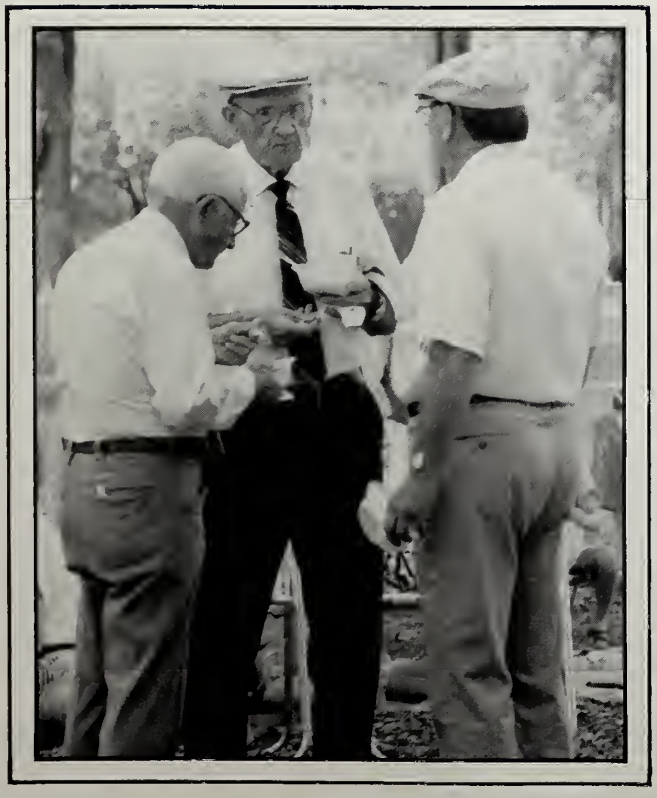
In putting the program together, Dr. Herman Diers of the religion department said, "The Christmas Story from its very beginning has been bringing the East and the West together. Once again, the story invites us to a unity that transcends all borders and systems and to a 'peace on earth, good will among all people.'

"The focus on the image of light is appropriate because that is an image that extends from the East to the West and embraces the whole earth and also because Eastern Christianity has a great emphasis on the shimmering transcendence of Christ."

A Candelight Dinner will be served at Nazareth Lutheran Church prior to the Christmas with Wartburg concert Friday, Dec. 2. It begins at 6:30 p.m.

Paul Torkelson, director of Castle Singers and the Wartburg Choir, will discuss briefly the Christmas with Wartburg programs, and there will be after dinner entertainment. Seating in the church will be reserved for dinner participants.

Cost of the meal is $8. Tickets for the Friday dinner may be purchased through the Wartburg Visitors Center (telephone [319] 352-8286).



INTERGENERATIONAL PARTY—Super Sundae Sunday attracted ice cream lovers of all ages to a celebration on the campus mall on Sept. 18.

Vogel appointed to education commission

Wartburg President Robert Vogel has been appointed by the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU) to its Commission on New Initiatives.

The commission, which is an integral part of NAICU's governance structure, reports to the association's board of directors and recommends policy positions on emerging issues of concern to independent higher education. It is composed of independent college presidents and experts in the fields of public affairs and government relations.

"I am delighted to have the benefit of President Vogel's experience on this commission," said Richard Rosser, president of NAICU. "His contributions will be invaluable to us as we shape our policies for the 101st Congress."

NAICU is a nonprofit association, founded in 1976 as the national voice of independent higher education. It initiates and supports public policies that advance the mission and promote the well-being of the independent sector of higher education.

It keeps the public and government informed about accomplishments and concerns of independent, non-profit colleges and universities in meeting America's educational needs and keeps its members informed of government actions that may affect them.

With a membership of more than 800 colleges and universities, NAICU is the largest and most representative association of independent institutions in the nation.

Peterson's selects Wartburg for fourth year

For the fourth consecutive year, Wartburg is among the 314 colleges included in the new edition of Peterson's Competitive Colleges, published by Peterson's Guides, the Princeton-based publisher of education and career reference materials.

The colleges chosen are those that consistently accept the nation's best students and, along with 23 art and music schools that have highly selective acceptance rates, represent approximately 10 percent of all American institutions of higher education.

Wartburg also was one of 225 colleges in Peterson's Competitive Colleges to work on a special project to send free copies of the book directly to more than 50,000 high achieving high school students and high schools that traditionally graduate a high percentage of college-bound minority students. The project is designed to reach high-potential students who previously might not have thought in such broad terms about college choices.

ALL CAMPUS PICNIC—Following the dedication of the new Humanities Center at Wartburg during opening convocation, the college sponsored an outdoor picnic for all students, staff and faculty.

The criteria used for inclusion in the book are objective, based on data that indicate the level of achievement of the entering freshman classes, according to the publisher.

Each college has a full-page profile, providing such information as high school rank and test scores of freshmen, academic resources and special programs, percentage of applicants who were accepted and who enrolled, costs and financial aid, majors and sports offered.

The guide allows students to put into perspective all the college information that they have received and enables them to compare one college with another more accurately.

Peterson's Competitive Colleges 1988-89 is available in bookstores or direct from Peterson's, Department 8522, P.O. Box 2123, Princeton, N.J., 08543-2123, from $9.95, plus $1.25 shipping and handling.

Strickert

Strickert earns degree at Iowa

The Rev. Frederick Strickert, assistant professor of religion, was awarded a Ph.D. degree in religion by the University of Iowa at its summer commencement Aug. 5.

His doctoral dissertation was entitled "The Pronouncement Sayings of Jesus in the Gospel of Thomas and the Synoptics" and is a comparison of the sayings of Jesus from Greek and Coptic manuscripts found in Egypt with the Canonical Gospels.

Strickert, who has been at Wartburg since 1986, is a 1970 graduate of Concordia Senior College in Fort Wayne, Ind., and has M. Div. and S.T.M. degrees from Christ Seminary-Seminex in St. Louis.

College staff completed for 1988-89

Six new staff appointments have been announced at Wartburg for the current academic year.

Patricia Ann McMahon is residence hall director of Grossmann Hall and the Waverly and Afton Manors; Elizabeth Collins is assistant controller; Douglas Kvidera is manager of computer operations; Susan J. Schubert is doing her internship in the campus ministry office; Charanne M. Parks is minority student officer; and Kathy Schultz is graphic artist.

McMahon

Collins

McMAHON is a 1988 graduate of the University of Dubuque, where she was a resident assistant for three years, planning and organizing floor and dormitory activities, enforcing school policy and serving as a mediator for dormitory residents and as a peer counselor. She is from Manchester, Iowa.

COLLINS, who has responsibility in the areas of financial analysis, office supervision and accounting, came to Wartburg from Belle Plaine, Iowa, where she was an accountant and tax preparer for Norgaard and Collins. She also has worked as an accountant and laboratory supervisor in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Kvidera

Schubert

KVIDERA is in charge of the college's computer center and its back-up operations. He had been a student operator and consultant in the computer center at the University of Minnesota-Morris, where he graduated last spring.

She previously was a program director of a child crisis center, a hospital social worker and a therapist and co-owner of a private counseling practice in Mesa, Ariz. She began her first career as a mental health specialist at Read Mental Health Center in Chicago. She graduated from Southern Illinois University in 1970 and completed a Master of Social Work degree at Arizona State University in 1981.

PARKS, who also will have responsibility in the Wartburg admissions office, comes to Wartburg from Des Moines, Iowa, where she verified statistics and information on health plans and processed financial documents for Olsten Services. She graduated from the University of Iowa last spring.

Two Professors Emeriti die during summer

Two people with long-time Wartburg associations died during the summer.

They are Hazel Mae Snyder, associate professor emerita of home economics, and Dr. Alfred Haefner '25, professor emeritus of Greek.

Snyder, 92, died July 30 in Black Mountain, N.C., and Haefner, 84, died Aug. 28 in Waverly.

Snyder taught home economics at Wartburg from 1947 until her retirement in 1963. Since 1976, she has resided at the Highland Farms Retirement Community in Black Mountain.

She received her B.A. degree from Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and an M.A. degree from Columbia University Teachers College.

Haefner

Snyder

Haefner had a variety of positions at the college, joining the faculty in 1935 as a teacher of Greek, history and German. He was registrar in 1936-37 and dean of the faculty from 1951-55.

He served as a vice president of the American Lutheran Church from 1952-54.

After graduation from the college, he attended Wartburg Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa, and then earned an M.A. degree from the University of Minnesota and a Ph.D degree at the University of Chicago.

Cost reduction program wins national award

A cost reduction program installed in 1987 by Wartburg's maintenance department won fifth place in the 1988 National Association of College and University Business Officers (NACUBO)/USX Foundation Cost Reduction Incentive Awards program.

The program, which is open to all higher education institutions, was begun in 1976 as a means of giving national recognition to successful cost reduction ventures at colleges and universities.

EFFICIENCY AND SAVINGS—While planting trees on the northwest corner of campus, John Wuertz can be summoned promptly by walkie-talkie, eliminating delays and time-consuming call-ins.

Wartburg's award-winning program involved a communications system for its maintenance staff.

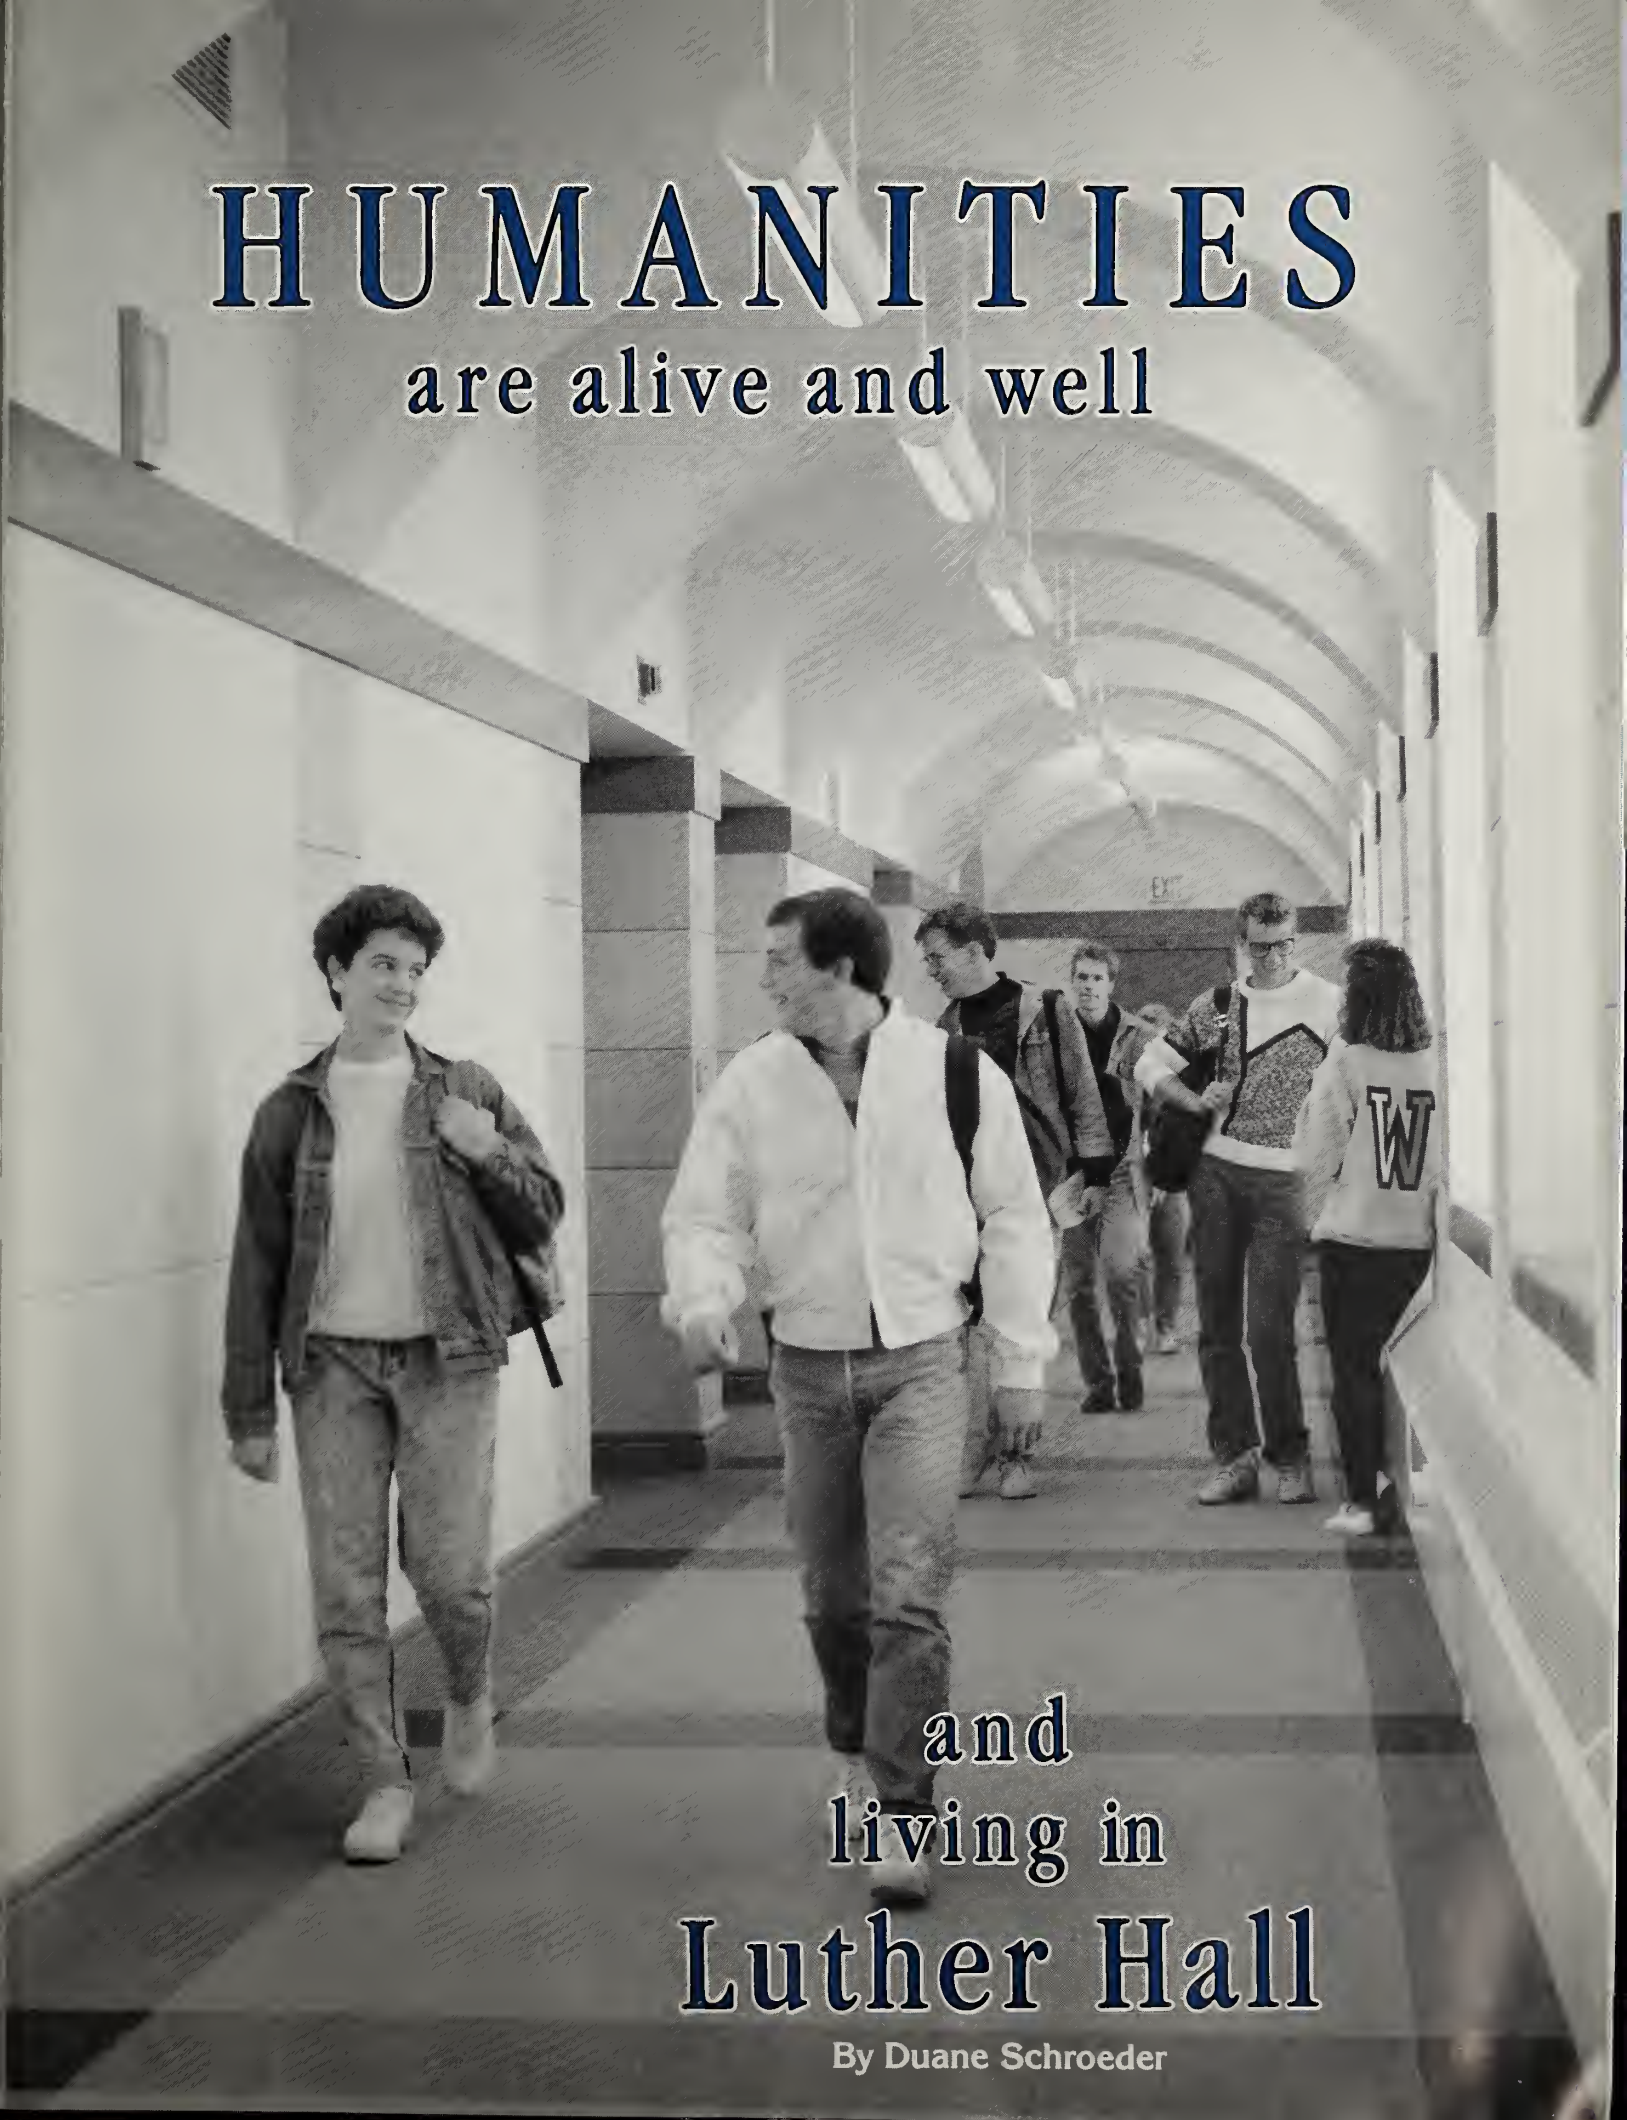
All members of the custodial, grounds-keeping and security staffs were equipped with 14 Fujitsu FM receivers, which are carried at all times while on the job, making it possible for all personnel to stay in constant contact with each other, their supervisors and the campus telephone console.

"It makes for more efficient use of our time," plant superintendent John Laube said.

Previously, large amounts of time were lost in attempting to locate staff members on campus.

The college estimates it has saved nearly $42,000 with the new communications system in addition to increasing the efficiency of its operations and maintenance staff and the effectiveness of its security staff.

Since the Cost Reduction Incentive Awards program was established 13 years ago, NACUBO says that more than $241 million have been realized in campus savings nation-wide.



HUMANITIES
are alive and well and living in
Luther Hall

By Duane Schroeder

Some of us used to dissect frogs up there; now, they dissect life.

"Up there" is the third floor of Luther Hall, which this past summer was renovated into a new Humanities Center for the college. The remodeling was so complete that old-timers no longer have the feeling that they are in Luther Hall, what with carpeted and arched hallways, suites of faculty offices, more utilitarian classrooms, seminar rooms, even rest rooms for the first time in the 62-year history of the building.

"It has a classical feel to it," Provost Edwin H. Welch said, pointing to the archways and the style in which the whole floor is finished.

The center houses the foreign language, history, English, religion and philosophy departments, providing seven classrooms, four seminar rooms and 18 faculty offices in an area that originally was space for the science and commerce departments when it was first completed in 1926.

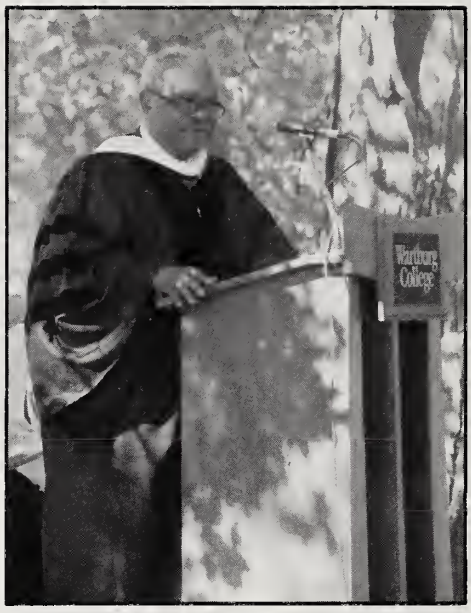
Most importantly, it gives the humanities, the heart and soul of liberal arts, an identity on campus at a point in history when there is a general lack of interest in the field among students nationwide. Academic studies show that nationally less than 1 percent of college students take courses in humanities.

Ironically enough, while students lack interest in the humanities, which generally focus on lasting human values, the cultivation of the classics and the achievements of Western civilization, a recent study by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) notes that cultural events have become more attractive to the rest of the American population and people are actually spending more money and time on them than on sporting events.

"The remarkable blossoming of the humanities in the public sphere is one of the least noted, though most important, cultural developments of the last few decades," Lynne V. Cheney, chair of NEH, wrote in her report.

Dr. Darwin T. Turner, a Distinguished Professor of Humanities at the University of Iowa and keynote speaker at the ceremonies dedicating the center during opening convocation this fall, said there are a number of reasons for the malaise among students when it comes to the humanities.

"The humanities don't bring in money," he said. "They don't teach people how to do; they teach people how to be."



HOW TO 'BE'—Dr. Darwin Turner addressed the college's opening convocation August 30. He said the humanities teach one not how to 'do' but how to 'be.'

Turner said years ago the humanities were too often associated with elitism, and there was a feeling that they were an area of study open only to the affluent, only to the aristocracy. That is no longer true, he pointed out, noting that since the Civil War study of the humanities has been opened to increasing numbers of people. But the reputation was there and has lingered on.

He put some of the blame for the lack of interest on teachers in the field.

"We rarely do things in a spectacular way," Turner said, "and sometimes we are reluctant to communicate in language that can be understood. In fact, we sometimes applaud ourselves that we speak only so that others in the humanities can understand us."

The report from the NEH asserts that too many colleges are neglecting the achievements of Western culture while requiring ethnic courses, treating literary masterpieces as political documents, stressing publishing rather than teaching and dealing in topics so specialized that they have little meaning outside the academic world.

"The humanities are about more than politics, about more than social power," the report said. "What gives them their abiding worth are truths that pass beyond time and circumstance; truths that, transcending accidents of class, race and gender, speak to us all."

Welch said the creation of the Humanities Center is one way the college can demonstrate how important the field is to a Wartburg education, and he adds that Wartburg students do not reflect the national trend in lacking interest in the humanities.

"If you include the fine arts, more than 25 percent of the courses taken at Wartburg are in the humanities. If you exclude the fine arts, the figures were 22.4 percent in 1971-72 and 21.5 percent in 1985-86; so you see the demand has been constant. More than half of the courses required in The Wartburg Plan are humanities courses."

The Humanities Center, in fact, is symbolic of the integrative approach found in The Wartburg Plan, the college's general education program, which says to students "This is what a liberal arts education is all about." Physically, the center offers a classroom designed specifically for the plan's course in Human Expression, providing easy access to equipment by which students can listen to music or view art. More importantly, by giving identity to and uniting the humanities into one facility, the center typifies the college's holistic approach to the entire curriculum.

"For the first time, we have an integrative facility," said Dr. Roy Allen, chair of the foreign language department. "It gives us the same advantages that the business people have with the Whitehouse Business Center, the science people with the Becker Hall of Science, the physical education people with the Physical Education Center and so forth. It brings us together, so we can associate together and gain from each other. We can share concerns, get help from each other and stimulate one another. It will help keep us going. It prevents a feeling of isolation, a sense that the humanities aren't quite as important as some of the career-oriented fields."

Welch says the new center "underscores the vital role the humanities play in the life of the college and in raising important questions for students—questions concerning the meaning of human life, the quality of human life, the value of human life, the goals of human life. The humanities can help provide some of the answers through study, questioning and reflecting on language, literature and culture."

Turner, in his dedication address, seconded the importance of humanities in improving the quality of life for an individual—as a person, as a citizen and as a member of society in a nuclear age.

"Personally, the humanities can expand the range of pleasure within ourselves—the range of literature we read, the music we listen to and the art we experience. The humanities can help us move toward an enlightened majority. This is particularly important in an age of 'doublespeak,' in which a 'Peacemaker' is a weapon and 'income enhancement' is a tax increase. The humanities can help us survive this nuclear age in which we find ourselves. One must have a knowledge of history, of the past, in order to cope with today's headlines."

Welch said that even the physical layout of the center enhances the value to the humanities.

"The lounge in the hallway provides a place to facilitate conversation and thinking between faculty, between students and between faculty and students. The presence of four seminar rooms underscores a teaching methodology that puts an emphasis on dialogue between instructor and teacher."

"It is a room that encourages interaction between the faculty and the students." he said.

Allen said students as well as the faculty utilizing the center have appreciated the effort made to enhance the humanities.

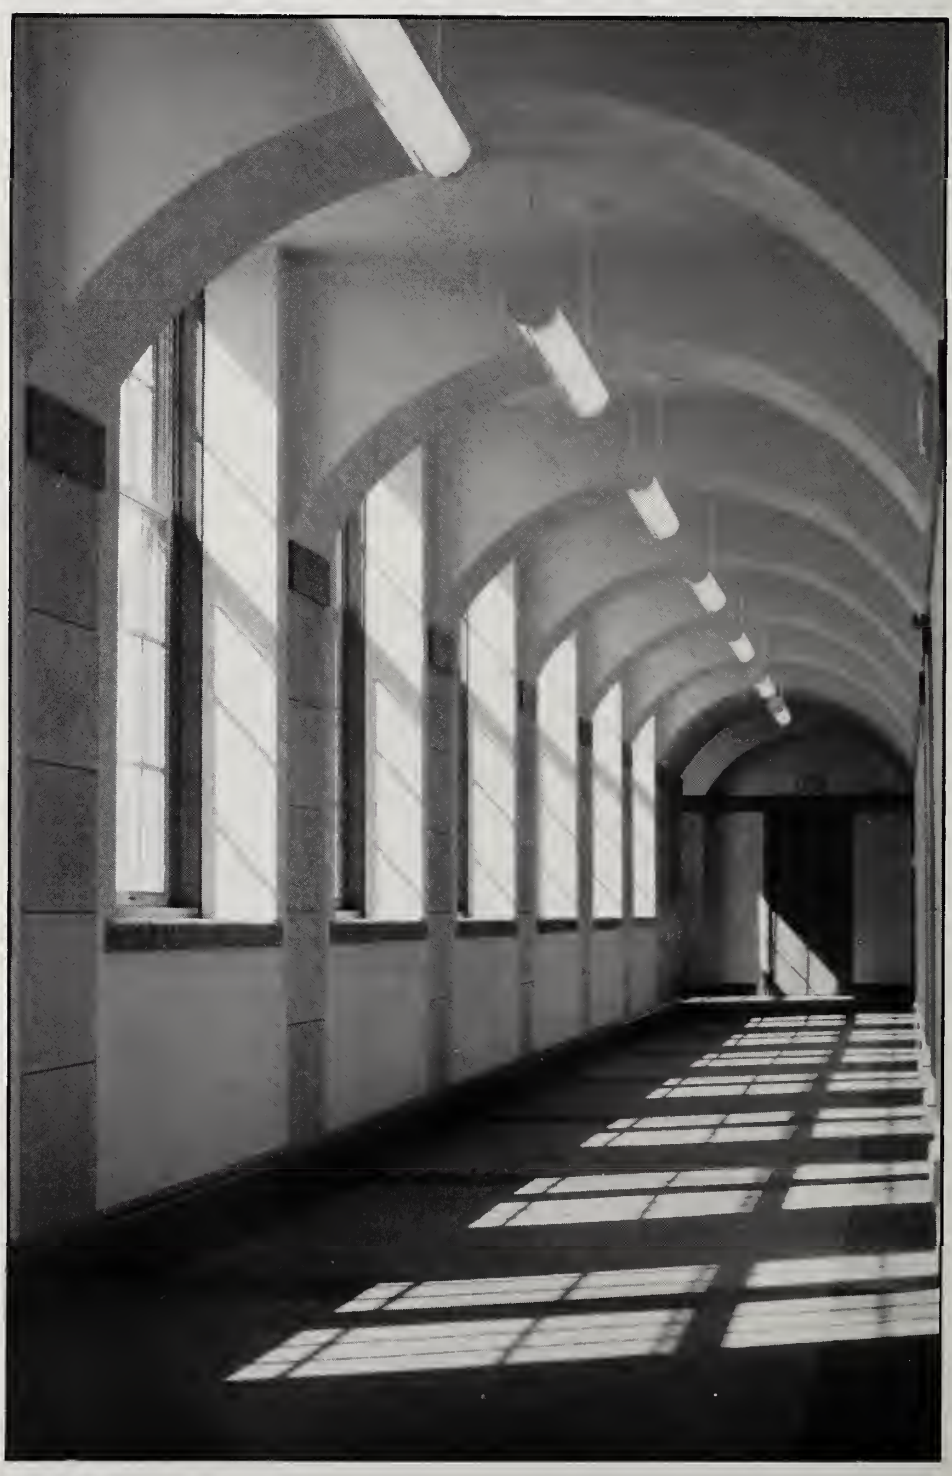
"Generally speaking, they have a positive attitude," he said. "The classrooms provide better access to the equipment we need in order to teach. The decor is in good taste. You can tell the college didn't cut corners. The center is aesthetically pleasing yet still very practical. The offices offer us a cozy feeling, and the soundproofing is very good."

Just as the renovation of the third floor is only the first step in the refurbishing of all of Luther Hall, so the Humanities Center is only the first step in encouraging a greater interest in this area of study.

"We want to make our humanities offerings as vital and relevant as we can to encourage interest in the field," Welch said. "As interest grows, we will respond to it."

There are some immediate plans. For example, a proposal has been submitted to the National Endowment for the Humanities for a grant to support an endowed chair in ethics and philosophy, and the college has secured funding to develop a Distinguished Professorship in the Humanities.

The third floor of Luther Hall evokes some familiar names: Dr. G.J. Neumann, the long-time English department chair after whom Neumann Auditorium is named, Dr. A.W. Swensen, the chemistry chair who built Wartburg's Artist Series into a program of Midwestern renown, Dr. Elmer Hertel, who headed the biology department on the third floor for so long. With the plans being developed by the college, the new Humanities Center will likely become home to the same kind of giants with the same kind of love for teaching and knowledge.



AFTER—At the close of the day, sun and shadow have the completed Humanities Center corridor all to themselves.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

How strong are we financially?

A host of announcements and reports during the past year has testified to the quality of Wartburg students, faculty and academic programs:

- three Fulbright scholarships awarded to 1988 graduates
- inclusion by the Carnegie Foundation in a listing of 140 selective liberal arts colleges
- selection by Changing Times as one of the 42 best public and private colleges and universities in the country offering high quality at low cost
- a 98.5 percent placement of the 1987 graduating class.

What about the financial picture, however? How strong is Wartburg financially?

The astounding news for fiscal year 1988 is that the endowment fund grew by nearly 70 percent from $3.9 million to more than $6.6 million. We thank God for that growth, recognizing that it represents the love and commitment to the college of individuals and families nurtured over many years.

The reality remains, however, that, while the endowment is no longer meager, it is still inadequate to the college's needs and future challenges. We will continue to emphasize the endowment.

Alumni giving is another bright spot in the past year. For the first time alumni contributions topped $500,000. Nearly 28 percent of our alumni participated in the Annual Fund.

Again, the reality is that total giving to the Annual Fund was still significantly less than the college had budgeted. While the percentage of alumni participating puts Wartburg well above the national average, the size per gift is substantially below the average.

We recognize that it will take some time to re-establish the Annual Fund which, for a decade, was incorporated into the Design for Tomorrow program. Increasing numbers of alumni, parents and friends must contribute to the college on an annual basis if Wartburg is to continue to provide a distinctive educational experience for students. The goal for the Annual Fund for this fiscal year is $700,000.

Prudent and conservative budgeting and fiscal management have kept Wartburg College in the black over the years. The college ended fiscal year 1988 with balances in Plant Funds and Current Funds. The accumulative Current Funds balance of $500,000 provides the college, perhaps for the first time, with a reserve for contingencies or unexpected loss of revenue.

Gift income in fiscal year 1988 was the largest in the college's history. The major part of the Whitehouse estate was received during the year, about $1.6 million. By action of the Board of Regents, the Whitehouse gift will be treated as endowment, a portion of its earnings to be used for maintenance of the Whitehouse Business Center and the remainder to finance other capital projects in the spirit of the donors. The first new project financed through the Whitehouse gift was the "re-creation" of Luther Hall's third floor as a Humanities Center.

The priorities for fiscal year 1989 are clear: to endow faculty chairs and professorships, add to the monies available for student scholarships and grants, encourage increased support of the Annual Fund and solicit major gifts for a new Fine Arts Center to provide larger and better facilities for our programs in art, music and music therapy.

We thank God for you and your loyalty and support. Please continue to pray for us as together we build on the foundations of faith and learning that have made Wartburg strong.

The Heritage Club of Wartburg College is growing! Total membership now exceeds 630 individuals, comprising 403 family units. In addition to the members listed here, another group of members have chosen to remain anonymous. All members are alumni and friends who have made provision for a future gift to Wartburg.

Heritage Club hopes to double its membership in the next five years. That ambitious target of 80-100 new members each year will require continuous efforts by members and staff. We hope all alumni and friends will consider membership in this very special group.

Heritage Club has been the major factor in helping Wartburg's endowment grow to almost $7 million! Estates currently in probate will add another $2 million to that endowment total. This is a positive and powerful indication of the value and importance of Heritage Club for the future of Wartburg.

To qualify for membership in Heritage Club, simply inform the college that you have made provision for a future gift to Wartburg. Such gifts may take a variety of forms. A will, trust, insurance policy, gift annuity, life estate or establishment of a restricted endowment are examples of future planned gifts that can qualify you for membership in Heritage Club.

For further details and membership application form contact Rev. David A. Nelson, director of planned giving, Wartburg College, 222 9th St. N.W., Waverly, IA 50677-1003. Information on various types of planned gifts is also available at no cost or obligation, if desired.

The eleventh annual meeting of Heritage Club was held on May 20, 1988, with 125 members and friends in attendance.

Cross country team gets Rocky Mountain High

HIGH ALTITUDE TRAINING—Wartburg cross country coach John Kurtt (l-standing) attempts to build a sense of family among members of his team each summer when he takes them to Colorado for a week of high altitude training. Making the trip this year were (l-r, standing) junior Ross Huffman of Stom Lake, Iowa; senior Kori Stoffregen of Jesup, Iowa; junior Lee Hammerand of Sherrill, Iowa; senior Greg Blank of Nevada, Iowa; sophomore Brad Thompson of Randall, Iowa; and junior Bob Howie of Monticello, Iowa; (l-r, front) freshmen Tim Hansen of Montezuma, Iowa; Todd Houge of Manly, Iowa; Mark Sampson of Eagle Grove, Iowa; and Kevin Kearney of Cascade, Iowa.

When the Wartburg men's cross country team makes its annual summer trek to Colorado for the Wartburg High Altitude Training Camp, it isn't seeking so much to get an advantage on its opponents as it is to build a sense of family.

"The most important advantage is meeting our new runners and living close together for a week," coach John Kurtt said. "Everyone has to learn to cooperate. We give everyone specific duties, and they all have to pitch in. Otherwise, we would be meeting our freshmen as a team for the first time when classes begin, and that is such a busy time that it would be difficult for us to get to know each other very well."

Kurtt said that a sense of family has become an emphasis in his cross country program.

"Once we are back on campus, we continue to eat together after daily workouts," he said. "It all started with the camp. And I have to say the trip is just as beneficial for me as it is for the kids. It gives me an opportunity to know them as persons, not just as athletes."

Kurtt said that the camp does have some value in cross country training by motivating the runners to work during the summer but that it has little value in terms of high altitude training.

"Knowing that you will be making the trip, you have to prepare for it, and that makes you work a little harder than you normally would," the veteran Wartburg athletic director said. "It's a motivating factor. Of course, you get additional work out there. However, there is no carryover from the Colorado training to the regular season. We simply are not out there long enough."

An advantage of training in Colorado is that, despite the thin air, there is very little of the heat and humidity that is usually experienced in the Midwest.

Mark Sampson, a freshmen from Eagle Grove, Iowa, outlined the squad's daily workout program in an interview given to the college's student newspaper, The Wartburg Trumpet.

"We ran about two to three miles almost every morning and night. It didn't seem like we were running a lot, but, with the high altitude, it really wore you out. Sometimes you would have to stop and walk."

Another freshman, Todd Houge of Manly, Iowa, one of the top winners in last year's Regents Scholarship program, agreed the workouts were difficult.

"You found out who was in shape and who wasn't, but it really didn't make any difference. We all needed to work on hill training."

The annual trek to Colorado started seven years ago when Joel Alexander, the son of Dr. Ron and Virginia Alexander, became a freshman member of the Wartburg cross country team. Ron chairs the college's philosophy department and is an avid distance runner himself.

The Alexanders, who had just built an A-frame cabin 20 miles north of Estes Park, invited the squad out for the first camp. They are just now putting the finishing touches on the cabin.

"They have been gracious hosts," Kurtt said. "They make a sacrifice for us every year. Without them, the trip probably wouldn't be affordable for many of our runners."

The Alexanders not only provide a place to stay, but Virginia, along with John's wife, Laurel, does the cooking, and that combination keeps the price for the runners to about $100.

"It is getting difficult to continue to impose upon the Alexanders," Kurtt said. "We hope to continue making some kind of a trip, but it may take a different format."

The Colorado trip is frequently an eye-opener for the runners, the bulk of whom come from the Midwest.

"It is a great experience for kids who have never been in the mountains before," Kurtt said, "and we give them the opportunity for some sightseeing. We generally expose them to Denver and the University of Colorado at Boulder. This year we went to the Coors Classic Bicycle Race. Boulder, you know, is the bicycle capital of the world."

Each year the Wartburg runners compete in a different distance race as the climactic event on their trip. This year, it was the 10 kilometer Wheatridge Road Race.

The 10 runners who were on this year's trip all said it accomplished what it was designed to do.

"The trip brought us together as a team, physically as well as mentally," Houge said. "We learned to cooperate. We became family, and that's what it takes to succeed in cross country—unity."

Kori Stoffregen, a senior from Jesup, Iowa, agreed. "The trip helps to build relationships with freshmen. It lets us get to know them first before school starts. Now we have a team atmosphere. We get a little motivation for school, and we get really fired up for the year."

And that's what Division III athletics is all about.

Women golfers place third

In the only fall sports completed by the time the Wartburg Magazine went to press, Wartburg placed fourth in women's golf at the Iowa Conference tournament.

As expected, it was a three-team race with Luther unseating Central as league champion for the first time since the conference began sponsoring the sport seven years ago. Loras placed third.

Team scoring had Luther with 666 strokes, Central 670, Loras 680, Wartburg 727, Simpson 742 and Buena Vista 772.

Two Wartburg students, Jennifer Sterk of West Liberty, Iowa, and Stephanie Reinert of Dysart, Iowa, finished just two strokes out of the running for the All Iowa Conference team, which includes the top 10 individual players. Each shot a 176 at the Waverly Municipal Golf Course in the two-day, 36-hole tournament.

Some West African communities know all about Wartburg

By Elaine Main

A surprising number of communities in West Africa know about Wartburg. Through the actions of alumni living there, the college has a reputation of service.

That's what college president Robert Vogel and his wife Sally discovered last June. The Vogels and three other college presidents and their spouses visited Liberia, Nigeria, Senegal and Sierra Leone as part of an intensive three-week study tour sponsored by the Lutheran Educational Conference of North America to encourage international studies and programs in Lutheran colleges.

An early stop was Nigeria, where the Vogels met with Dr. Joseph Toyosi '55, who remembers Wartburg as "the friendliest place in the world."

"Joseph was the first person from his 'village' of 25,000 to earn a college degree," Vogel said, "and he's the first dermatologist in western Nigeria. He is highly respected."

Toyosi honored the Vogels at an event in his home that included Williams Adedeji '86, the parents of Wartburg student Tetteh Pecku '88 and leaders from the area—bankers, doctors, other professional people. It was an event not at all reminiscent of Toyosi's past. He had celebrated his 19th birthday before he owned his first pair of shoes. Each week, he walked 15 miles to attend high school. He had not taken a science course before he entered Wartburg with the dream of becoming a doctor. Now a successful professional, he prizes his roots.

"He has a great affection for the people in his home village of Gbongan, which is about 25 miles from Ibadan, where he lives now," Vogel said. "Joe chairs the board of directors of a high school in Gbongan. He funds six scholarship there so that students with potential can study beyond high school. He and two other prominent citizens of Gbongan have promoted higher education in the nation, and college graduates now number more than 2,000. Joe operates a small hospital in Ibadan and a clinic in Gbongan, despite the fact that the clinic operates at a loss. No other medical service is available."

Also hosting the Vogels in Nigeria was Chief Olatunde Abudu '56. Ola is a businessman and a partner in the law office of Abudu, Dalley & Co. The Spring 1987 issue of the Wartburg Magazine told his story.

PROMOTES EDUCATION—Dr. Joseph Toyosi '55, West Africa's only dermatologist, chairs the campaign to build a parish hall for St. Paul's Church (above) in Gbongan, Nigeria. His Wartburg degree gave Gbongan its first college graduate. He promotes education there, and now college graduates number 2,000.

"Ola feels a tremendous commitment to help his people," Vogel said. "For example, his bank started a loan program that aids small farmers. The governor of his state regularly cites his work as an example of what must be done if Nigeria's economy is to stabilize and expand."

This desire to serve others also drives the mission work of the Rev. Daniel and Beverly Gramstad Hart '71/'71 in Dakar, Senegal. They see the first step in ministering to their people is to earn their trust and to initiate dialogue. Their work is focused on a community center built by the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America in Yeumbeul on the outskirts of Dakar. There, the Vogels saw 30 young men intently using its upstairs library, reading materials in French, English and tribal languages. The center teaches sewing and weaving to women, helps young students learn Pulaar, the primary tribal language, and offers a woodworking shop and recreation area, which buzzes with activity.

"The Harts love the people," Vogel said, "and their children consider Senegal their home."

The Harts have three children: Eric, 12; Neal, 10; and Amber, 7.

Security and safety are major concerns in urban Dakar. You "dash" or tip someone to guard your car when you park. Houses are built in walled compounds. Homeowners hire both day and night guards to protect their property. Break-ins are common.

Water, food and food preparation require a lot of attention. Shopping at the market becomes part of the daily routine, as well as the processes that must be carefully followed to ensure that fruits and vegetables are clean.

Such concerns are not unique to Senegal. Carol Jensen Harrison '62 teaches in Liberia, a country halfway between Senegal and Nigeria. She found that food preparation and caring for basic needs take longer than she anticipated.

She teaches mathematics as a Fulbright professor to five classes totalling 110 students at Cuttington College, about 100 miles "up country" from Monrovia, Liberia's capital. She first experienced Cuttington during the sabbatical that she took several years ago with her husband, Randolph, a biology professor. Both are faculty members at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa. They spent the sabbatical year teaching at Cuttington, where she coordinated a student study program.

Teaching materials are severely limited. This year she teaches a calculus course with only two copies of the textbook—one copy for her and the other shared by all the students. Some computer hardware is available, but she must cope with irregular electricity and the humidity of a tropical environment that gets dusty during the dry season.

"In spite of this, she encourages international experiences," Vogel said. "She urges Wartburg faculty to teach in other countries because of the experience it offers. She says that interpreting subject matter to students in other countries deepens understanding of your field, and, in Liberia, she teaches some of the brightest students she's ever met."

Harrison's family lives her advice. Her daughter, Amanda, 21, majors in international sudies at Tufts University; Mark, 18, began studies at George Washington University, following a high school senior year in Germany; and Jennifer, 14, is spending the year in Liberia with her mother.

After May Commencement, Heather Matthews '87 didn't wait for her experience abroad. She told Vogel that the atmosphere and connections at Wartburg landed her a job teaching French at Hillcrest School in Jos, Nigeria.

"Some people seem to know what they want to do with their lives," Matthews said, "but that wasn't me. I only knew I wanted to do something with my French. Herb Hafermann ('59, a Tanzanian missionary who spent a sabbatical year studying at Wartburg in 1986-87) sat next to me in my Developing Countries class, and he told me about Hillcrest School. It sounded interesting, and he arranged application papers for me. A Wartburg friend, Roger Bohnhoff '89, had attended Hillcrest and gave me a personal report on the school. Hillcrest was interested in my application. The school interviewed me in June and, that same day, gave me a two-year contract. By August 6, I was in Jos."

She felt that her junior year abroad in France helped prepare her for service in Africa.

"At the same time," she said, "life here is totally different. Nothing can completely prepare you for it. You must experience it. But I'm having the time of my life. I'm thinking of signing on for another year."

LECNA's West Africa tour participants recommend that Lutheran colleges promote international education and understanding and incorporate them into their curricula. They suggest travel grants for faculty and students to study abroad. That sounds good to Wartburg faculty, who already have a strong commitment to cross cultural experiences, according to their former students in West Africa.

Alumni dedicate book to Garland

Margaret W. Garland, associate professor emerita of English and journalism at Wartburg, is the recipient of a book that was written by two of her former students and dedicated to her.

The book, Public Relations and Community: A Reconsidered Theory, was written by Dr. Kenneth Starck '56 of the University of Iowa journalism school and Dr. Dean Kruckeberg '69, who teaches mass communications at the University of Northern Iowa.

Starck was director of the school of journalism at Iowa until resigning from that position to accept a Fulbright grant to teach in China.

Both edited the college's student newspaper, The Wartburg Trumpet, and won All American honors under the direction of Garland, who was the paper's adviser and directed the journalism program from 1946 to 1973, when she retired. Robert C. Gremmels '52 now chairs the communication arts department.
